200th Anniversary of the Birth of Baha'u'llah

It is a pleasure to offer my best wishes to members of the Australian Baha'i community as you celebrate the birth of founder and prophet Baha'u'llah.

Members of the Baha'i faith have been active in Australia since 1920 and come from all nations and walks of life. Their commitment to interfaith dialogue and our harmonious multicultural society has been outstanding, following Baha'u'llah's vision of a united global society.

Now numbering some 4,500 people in NSW, the Baha'i community strives to build and maintain vibrant communities by creating networks of support and cooperation.

Sydney is privileged to be home to one of eight Continental Houses of Worship around the world, as such we as a state holds an important connection to the Baha'i faith and community worldwide.

I thank the Baha'i community for their continued contribution to the betterment of our state and congratulate them on this momentous anniversary.
